Supporting the whole family for the whole journey

Dear Staff,

It is with great pleasure that we thank you for your generous contribution of $6, 721 to Redkite. It will help us provide immediate and essential support to children, teenagers and young adults with cancer.

In Australia, a child or young person is diagnosed with cancer every six hours. When life is turned upside down by this devastating diagnosis, Redkite is there with information, counselling and practical support to help families navigate the long and difficult journey ahead.

As a valued long term supporter of Redkite, you will be aware that our services are available for anyone with cancer from birth to age 24. We are also there for their family, friends and support networks. Drawing closer to our vision of reaching every young person with a cancer diagnosis who needs us, we are now able to help non-English speaking families access interpreters and connect to our services.

Redkite receives no government funding. We rely on the generosity of community minded organisations like yours to fund our programs.

Today, more families than ever before can access our services. Your ongoing support will ensure that we continue to expand our reach, improve our programs and help families every step of the way. Thank you for your commitment and we are wishing Oscar Fry all the very best with his treatment.

With kind regards,

Tara Burton
